Bullet-pierced Skull Found in Jersey Tree

Berlin, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP)—South Jersey police were confronted with a mystery today after the discovery of a bullet-pierced skull on a tree limb in a dense woodland.

State Police Detective L. Eugene Dronoff said the skull was bare and probably had been in the woods "for some time." He added a preliminary investigation failed to show whether the skull was that of a murder victim.

Police combed the area for four hours after the skull was found yesterday in hopes of locating other parts of the skeleton but found nothing. Dronoff said the search would continue.

Held in Poughkeepsie For Attempted Arson

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Meyer Weiss, 24, of 855 East 172nd street, New York city, was charged with attempted first degree arson after two attendants at the Hudson River State Hospital extinguished a fire in a trash basket at the hospital bus station Saturday night.

State Trooper Harvey Sindt of Ramapo said the attendants told him Weiss was standing nearby when the fire was discovered. Sindt said Weiss told him he came to the hospital Saturday to visit a friend, but when he arrived he found his friend was not there.

Arrested before Justice of the Peace E. Lonsberry Dubois of Armonk, Weiss waived examination and was held for the grand jury.

Goodfellow Succumbs to Brain Concussion; Hurt in Game With Middletown

William (Bill) Goodfellow, 17-year-old Port Jervis High School senior, died at St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis Sunday morning from injuries which he suffered at the Port Jervis-Middletown football game on Thanksgiving Day. The death of young Goodfellow was the first in the history of DUSO League football and came as a great shock to coaches, players and school authorities.

Goodfellow, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Goodfellow, was injured during play Thursday and collapsed on the playing field as his team went into a punt formation. It is believed that he suffered the head injury several plays prior and it is said he had acted "rather peculiar" during a couple of previous plays. The supposition is that he was kicked in the head, with brain concussion following.

Got Honorable Mention

One of Port Jervis's best punters, Goodfellow had been selected Friday for honorable mention on The Freeman's All-DUSO team.

It was just before the end of the second period that Goodfellow was seen to collapse on the field as his team went into punt formation. He was removed from the field in an unconscious condition and taken to St. Francis Hospital where he was attended by physicians and blood transfusions were given and later Thursday night an operation was performed. At that time it was announced he had suffered a severe concussion of the brain and little hope was held for his recovery. Last rites of the Catholic Church were administered late Thursday night and after several hours had passed physicians began to have hopes that the young man would recover. He remained in an unconscious condition until Sunday when he appeared to regain consciousness and then death came suddenly about 11 o'clock in the morning.

Physicians Announced That Death Was Due to a General Head Injury and Gave as the Immediate Cause of Death an Acute Subdural Hematoma or Blood Clot. There Was Severe Brain Injury and Hemorrhage.

Prominent in Sports

The young scholastic griddier was one of Port's most valuable players and beside being one of the best punters for his team he was also prominent in other lines.

Army Decision Expected On Resumption of Draft

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—An Army decision is expected this week on whether to resume the draft in January after a two-month holiday—a step manpower advisers are reported to favor.

Officials said recommendations are in the hands of Secretary Patterson and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, awaiting action.

Those advisers favoring a call on selective service for a quota next month are understood to be contending as well as supplement it.

Latest reports show volunteer recruiting took an upward turn in the third week of November, after a steady decline for more than a month. Recruits, including regulars who re-enlisted or extended shorter terms of service to three years, totaled 5,666, compared with 4,444 the previous week.

But for the entire month a total of only about 20,000 was expected, representing little more than half the 37,000 monthly fixed by the War Department as a minimum requirement of the Regular Army.

Republicans Ask Which War Powers Can Be Cut Off

Senator Wiley Has Sent Inquiries to Members of Cabinet and General Bradley

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Republicans are polling President Truman's cabinet on the question of which emergency war powers can be safely cut off and which should continue.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said today he has sent the inquiries to cabinet members and the head of the Veterans Administration to prepare the way for quick action by the new congress to terminate all possible war powers and controls.

"Some people, without thinking, are telling us to decontrol, get rid of everything," he told reporters. "But we want to be sure we cut off suckers and not the tap roots."

Brett Tops List For Deputy Fire Chief Post in City

A certified eligible list from which an appointment to the post of deputy fire chief of the Kingston Fire Department can be made, has been mailed to the Board of Fire Commissioners by the Municipal Civil Service Board, it was announced Sunday by President Leonard Miller of the civil service board.

Mr. Miller said two men took the promotional examination earlier in the year, and that Fireman James Brett, a veteran of World War 2, heads the list. The other name on the list is that of Acting Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews.

The president of the civil service board said that while Matthews had obtained the highest marking in the examination Brett headed the list as he was a World War veteran.

The fire board is expected to make the appointment of deputy fire chief at its regular monthly meeting the last Tuesday of the month.

President Miller said that the results of the examination for the post of paid firemen had not been received from the State Civil Service Board as yet.

It was to determine the recruiting trend that the draft decision has been postponed since the October quota of 25,000 was unexpectedly cancelled, when only half filled, along with the November quota of 15,000. Selective Service was informed at that time that there would be no more calls for men from the War Department at least until after the year's end.

The action was laid to a temporary state of Army overstrength which has since been reduced by discharges. It left Selective Service with a backlog of qualified registrants between 19 and 25 considered ample to meet renewed monthly calls of 25,000 the first quarter of 1947.

Officials are giving no hint whether the Army will ask extension of the draft beyond March 31. That question is wrapped up in the War Department's announced intention of pressing in the new Congress for universal military training on grounds that some form of compulsion is imperative to meet needs of the Regular Army, the National Guard and organized reserve units.

City Shares State Cold Wave With Mercury Reading 13

High Wind Accompanies Drop in Thermometer; Upstate Reports Icy Roads

Riding the wings of a high wind a frigid wave swept into Kingston last night, enveloping the city in the coldest weather so far experienced this season. The official city thermometer recorded a low of 13 degrees during the night, but thermometers in other sections of the city registered even lower.

That winter was just around the corner was indicated Saturday morning with snow flurries in Kingston, and again Sunday evening when there were more flurries of snow.

The temperature yesterday ranged from a low of 31 to a high of 53 degrees, and during the night it gradually grew much colder, as a high, chilly wind swirled through the streets of the city.

November was a cold month, and according to the readings of the official city thermometer the lowest point touched by the mercury during the month was 25 degrees, while the highest point recorded was 75 degrees.

There was a total precipitation of .48 of an inch of rain in the city during November the records show.

Icy Roads Update

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Temperature dropped to the zero mark in New York today as icy roads caused traffic hazards in central and western areas of the state.

Early morning reading (5:30 a. m.) reported to the U. S. Weather Bureau ranged from 7 to 20 above zero.

Snow showers fell in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton, Glens Falls and Ticonderoga. The weather bureau forecast partly cloudy and cold today and tonight.

Hundreds of automobiles were stalled in Onondaga county last night as the mercury dropped following a light fall of snow. Blockades of an hour or more were reported in Routes 5 and 11 main arteries, until the highways could be sand.

State Police said that western New York roads were "icing." No serious accidents attributable to icy roads were reported during the night, however.

Early readings: Rome and Fort Plain 7, Utica 8, Elmira 9, Binghamton 10, Syracuse, Rochester, Ticonderoga, Bear Mountain and Buffalo 11, Albany 12, Dunkirk 14, Newburgh 15 and New York (La Guardia field) 20.

Woman, 38, Shot In Parked Automobile

Floral Park, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Lydia Spillman, 38, was reported in serious condition early today after she had been shot in the chest while seated in her parked automobile.

Police sent out an alarm for a male neighbor whom they said was a neighbor named as her assailant.

Nassau County Police Lieut. James Farrell said the wounded woman told him the neighbor stepped up to her car last night as she was about to get out and after an argument, details of which were not revealed, shot her.

Mrs. Spillman, mother of three, was found slumped over her car's steering wheel by a patrolman investigating the continual sounding of an automobile horn.

Two Lomontville Men Injured in Car Upset

Two Lomontville men were injured in an auto accident near Stone Ridge about 9:15 Sunday night, when a 1933 Plymouth sedan operated by Edward Hasenflue, of R.F.D. 3, Kingston, skidded on a turn, ran off the road and landed upside down in a ditch.

Edward Robinson, riding with Hasenflue, was more seriously injured of the two, suffering several fractured ribs and lacerations of the face. Hasenflue received some face and body abrasions.

Both men were conveyed to the Benedictine Hospital by Conner's ambulance. Robinson was held over for observation and his condition this morning was reported good. Hasenflue was released after treatment.

The sheriff's office was notified of the accident by a telephone call from Corneilus Hardenbergh of Stone Ridge. Deputy Sheriff Harry Keator investigated.

Tabasco Youth Is Killed When Power Saw Breaks

Clifford Hahn, 30, Killed by Truck

Upper Saddle River, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP)—Clifford F. Hahn, 30, of 102 Clifton avenue, Kingston, N. Y., was fatally injured today when the truck he was driving on Route 17 crashed into a tourist camp sign here.

Hahn was thrown clear, but the truck turned over and fell on his body, state police said.

Mr. Hahn is survived by his wife and five months old daughter; his mother, Mrs. Ruth L. Hahn, a sister, Winifred Hahn, a niece, Erna Hahn and several uncles and aunts. No arrangements for the funeral have been announced.

Soviet Publicity Sets Tongues Awag For V. M. Molotov

Will He Be Successor to Stalin, Is Big Question Before Europeans

London, Dec. 2 (AP)—An unexpected new publicity buildup for Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov in the government-controlled Russian press set tongues wagging throughout Europe today in the popular game of trying to pick Prime Minister Stalin's successor.

Many diplomats and others who had not regarded Molotov as the most likely candidate were inclined to guess again after Moscow newspapers, reporting the 56-year-old Russian diplomat's election as an honorary member of the Soviet Academy of Science, lauded him lengthily as Stalin's closest assistant.

This almost unprecedented singling out of a Stalin deputy for public praise came less than a month after Stalin, 67 years old and by some accounts in poor health, failed for the second consecutive year to take part in the recent nationwide celebration of the Russian Revolution anniversary.

To some students of Soviet affairs it looked as though Stalin might be stepping down, or perhaps he was gradually relinquishing his powers, and as though Molotov was perhaps being groomed for advancement.

Molotov, undoubtedly the Russian leader best known to the western world by virtue of his prominence in big power deliberations at London, Paris and New York, has been a life-long worker for the Communist Party and is one of eight vice chairmen of Russia's council of ministers, of which Stalin is chairman.

Should Molotov succeed it would surprise those who have been "backing" such other leading officials as Georgi M. Malenkov, Andrei Andreyev, Lavrenti P. Beria, A. A. Zhdanov, A. I. Mikoyan, and L. M. Kaganovich.

Malenkov, 45, became a vice chairman of the Council of Ministers only last October, although he had been a member of the Communist Party's powerful Politburo since 1931. Often described as a "master in the art of power," he holds a position similar to that occupied by Stalin when Nikolai Lenin's death in 1924 precipitated a struggle for power.

Zhdanov, the only of the seven who is not a member of the Council of Ministers, won fame as Stalin's deputy at Leningrad and delivered the speech Stalin had been expected to make on the 29th anniversary of the revolution.

Beria, like Stalin, is a Georgian, is in charge of Russia's atomic energy development. Andreyev is directing the surge of collective farming. Mikoyan, an Armenian, is minister of foreign trade. Kaganovich, a Jewish member of the Council of Ministers is a vice chairman of the council.

Lt. Cmdr. Meagher Is Navigator of 'Mount Olympus'

K.H.S. Graduate Holds Vital Post in Navy Expedition on Way to Antarctica

WILLIAM J. MEAGHER

A Kingston man is a member of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's third Antarctic expedition, largest exploring party in history, which embarked today on the first lap of Operations Highjump—United States joint scientific and military conquest of the frozen regions around the South Pole.

He is Lieutenant Commander William J. Meagher, 26, son of Col. and Mrs. Frank L. Meagher of East St. James street, and holds the important post of navigator of the U.S.S. Mount Olympus, flagship of Admiral Byrd.

The youthful navigator is a graduate of Kingston High School in the class of 1938. While a student at the high school he was a member of the school's championship football team in the DUSO League.

Following his graduation from high school Meagher attended the New York State Merchant Marine Academy at Fort Schuyler, graduating in 1940, and entered the employ of the Socony Vacuum Oil Company.

At the outbreak of World War 2, Lt. Commander Meagher entered the naval service in February, 1942, and took part in the United States invasion of Africa in November of that year.

At the age of 23 years Lt. Commander Meagher became commanding officer of the U.S.S. Mink. At that time he was the youngest skipper of a large ship in the U. S. Navy.

Lt. Commander Meagher served 26 months in the Pacific area, participating in numerous campaigns, including Leyte, New Guinea, the Philippines and Borneo, as a member of the U. S. 7th Fleet.

Counsel Tells Judge U.M.W. Contention Is Not Valid, Mines Not Privately Run

Judge Gives View

Says He Presumes Lewis and Others Trying to Show Good Faith

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Federal attorneys today poured evidence into John L. Lewis' contempt trial in an effort to show that the soft coal strike interferes with a "sovereign function" of the government.

The evidence, government counsel told Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, is aimed at smashing the United Mine Workers' contention that private operators actually run the mines under federal seizure, and that the UMW walkout is, therefore, not an interference with the government.

The sheaf of federal exhibits—mostly orders and documents of the Federal Coal Mines Administration—were read by the first government witness, Coal Mines Administrator N. H. Collison, as the third day of the proceedings got under way.

Lewis is charged with contempt for failure to call off a contract termination notice that precipitated the soft-coal walkout.

Chief Government Counsel John F. Sonnett announced at the outset of the session that 10 additional witnesses, including Secretary of Interior Krug, will be called to bolster the government's case against the UMW chief.

At one point during the morning session, an argument between opposing attorneys on the admissibility of certain evidence brought from Judge Goldsborough the comment that Lewis and the union contend they are not in contempt and that he presumed "they are trying to show they acted in good faith."

Goldsborough said the "punishment in that case might be 'very different' from a 'deliberate violation' of the court's restraining order."

The evidence at issue, Sonnett told the court, was intended to show that certain provisions of the Smith-Connally act applied in the dispute. The Smith-Connally act prohibits any one from instigating strikes in a government-operated industry.

Sonnett was trying to bring out what changes in the miners' wages had been made under the contract which Lewis negotiated with the government last spring after a 59-day strike. Goldsborough permitted him to proceed.

Sonnett said that in addition to Krug and Collison, the government will call these witnesses:

Alfred O. O'Connell, of Paramount News; Joseph A. Genau, special F.B.I. agent; Lt. Cmdr. Hamilton Acheson, Coal Mines Administrator of the Iowa sub-area office; Lt. Cmdr. R. H. Behnke, Coal Mines Administrator of the Fairmount, West Va., area; Briggs M. Rogers, General Superintendent of the De Bardeleben Coal Corp., Sipesy, Ala.; Lt. Ralph N. Ciaola, Coal Mines Administrator representative from the sub area office in Uniontown, Pa.; Dr. Glenn Parker, Chief Prices and Markets Sub Section, Coal Economics of the Bureau of Mines; Dr. Philip Hauser, assistant to Secretary of Commerce Harriman; and George Haas, Director of Research and Statistics for the Treasury Department.

Although it had been expected that several cabinet officers would be called by the government, Krug was the only one of the President's official family named among the witnesses. He signed the mine contract which Lewis terminated, touching off the walk-out of the 400,000 soft coal miners 12 days ago.

Right Wing Shows Gains In German Election Returns

Frankfurt, Dec. 2 (AP)—Significant gains by extreme right wing parties were shown today in final returns from yesterday's elections in which two American-occupied German states adopted democratic constitutions and elected state legislatures which will assume almost complete self-government.

Although the two major middle-of-the-road parties retained their established leading positions, both lost ground to minor parties with strong rightist tendencies. The Communists, on the extreme left, also gained slightly at the expense of the two centrist groups, but not so much as the rightists.

The constitutions—establishing parliamentary forms of government—were adopted overwhelmingly both in Bavaria and greater Hesse.

Greater Hesse, the mostly highly industrialized and most strongly leftist of the three American-controlled states also adopted a separately-submitted constitutional provision requiring immediate socialization of basic industries. The

Roosevelt Denies King Statement; Sees 'Put Up Job'

Moscow, Dec. 2 (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt, off on a tour of southern Russia, has denied he charged the United States Embassy or its officials with being implicated in publication of off-the-record remarks attributed to him.

The son of the late United States President, visiting the Soviet Union with his wife, issued the denial last night before leaving on a southern train trip of 10 days or longer.

A correspondent who apparently sent out such a story is the very person who suggested to me that the denial was involved," he said. "I am calling him right now to tell him this. I am also informing the embassy here."

The U.S.S.R.

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Dec. 2 (AP)—The name of the vast country—the biggest in the world—stretching from the Danube to the Pacific, is not Russia, but the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, which has been shortened to Soviet Russia.

The U.S.S.R. is composed of 16 republics of which the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic is by far the largest, having its western frontier on the Baltic Sea, its southern in China, its northern in the Arctic Ocean, and its easternmost boundary on the Bering Straits.

The U.S.S.R. has two governing houses—the Council of the Union and the Council of Nationalities. Together they are called the Supreme Council of the Supreme Soviet.

In the Council of Union representation is based upon population. In the Council of Nationalities the smallest republic has the same numerical representation as the largest.

The Supreme Soviet has a presidium. When the full council is not sitting it has the authority to issue decrees based upon eventual ratification by both houses.

The U.S.S.R. constitution calls for general elections every four years. All well known Russian leaders are members of one of the houses. Generalissimo Stalin represents a Moscow district.

After its election the Supreme Soviet designates someone to form a government. In February this year it requested Stalin to do so. Stalin was designated and approved as chairman of the Council of Ministers. Then the vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, the ministers and their vice chairmen were named.

The government consists of members of the Communist party and non members. There is no other political party in the U.S.S.R.

Mikhail M. Shvernik is chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet. This makes him the official head of the state.

The central committee of the Communist party has a general secretary. Stalin holds this office. Other secretaries are Zhdanov, Andreiev, Malenkov, A. Kuznetsov and G. M. Popov.

The Communist party has a political bureau shortened in name to politburo. Its members are Stalin, Molotov, Zhdanov, Beria, Voroshilov, Andreiev, Malenkov, Kaganovich, Mikoyan and Khrushchev.

The presidium of the Supreme Soviet is composed of all kinds of Soviets from all parts of the U.S.S.R. It includes Russians, Georgians, Ukrainians and others.

The presidium has great powers. When the Supreme Soviet is not sitting, it passes decrees, interprets laws, ratifies treaties, gives decorations and grants pardons. Should the U.S.S.R. be attacked, it can declare war.

Women not only vote in the Soviet Union but hold offices in the Supreme Soviet, in the government offices and in the party. Every person 18 years or over not only can, but almost always does vote for candidates nominated at thousands of pre-election meetings all over the U.S.S.R.

Both Communists and non-Communists are among the nominees. I often have asked the question: What can the man in the street or his wife do about taking up some personal matter with the government?

President Shvernik, just as his predecessor, the late Mikhail Kalinin, the deputies in the Supreme Soviet, and quite often, even Stalin himself, consider and act upon personal problems brought directly to their attention by individual citizens.

For evidence one has only to look at the long lineup daily at President Shvernik's office across the street from the Kremlin.

The people who make up the U.S.S.R. speak many languages, practice more than 40 religions, and number some 193,000,000 persons. The country occupies one-sixth of the earth's surface.

Teachers' Union Awaits Answer to Salary Proposal

St. Paul Controversy Takes Brighter Turn: Wage Plan for Minneapolis Is Offered

Minneapolis, Dec. 2 (AP)—Another threat of a teacher's strike loomed today in Minneapolis as the teachers' union awaited an answer to its compromise salary proposal before a noon deadline.

In St. Paul, however, the school salary controversy brightened as the striking teachers there offered in a letter to Mayor John J. McDonough to return to their classroom if the St. Paul City Council, which acts as a school board, accepts in writing a compromise wage plan of negotiators.

The Minneapolis teachers' wage plan was given to the board of education Saturday night, countering one by Superintendent of Schools Willard E. Goslin which was credited with averting temporarily a teachers' walkout last Monday.

Goslin said that an answer would be given the teachers before the deadline and he added that he did not believe "we will have a teachers' strike."

The new Minneapolis wage demand is for an $800 a year increase in 1947; a $600 increase in 1948; and an additional $800 increase in 1949 so that the AFL teachers' federation demand for a basic annual $5,000 maximum would be in full effect by 1949.

Goslin had offered a $400 increase in 1947; an additional $800 increase in 1948, bringing the basic annual maximum to $4,200. The present corresponding maximum is $3,000.

TRUMAN AND CLEVELAND

President Truman is not the President who has been hardest hit by mid-term elections. That distinction goes to Grover Cleveland. He began his second term in 1893 with a House majority of 94. The 1894 elections changed that to a minority of 142, with only 104 Democrats returned to Congress out of a possible 357. (A few Congressmen belonged to minor parties.)

Such an overturn would, in most people's mind, have settled in advance the outcome of the 1896 presidential election. Actually by mid-summer of 1896 the predictions were for the success of the Democratic nominee, William Jennings Bryan. Though he was eventually defeated, the margin was narrower than it looked. A change of 18,000 votes all told in Kentucky, California, Indiana and two or three smaller states would have elected him.

Evidently not all presidential elections are sure two years ahead of time.

HUNGRY BRITONS

The British people, discouraged and almost apathetic over the continued dead-level state of their larder, may lose hope entirely when they read Food Administrator Strachey's statement that ration books are being printed for 1948.

One bright spot is seen on the horizon, however, in the announcement that with the resumption of trade with Hungary, the first importation will be 1,300 tons of turkeys. The coming nondays will be celebrated not with the roast beef of Old England, nor with the roast goose made famous by Tiny Tim, but with the same royal bird that will grace American tables.

With a better break from the weather man, next year may bring England a fine crop of grain which would make available more flour for bread and more feed for turkeys and other fowl. Britons certainly hope for it.

RESIGNATION TALK

Why should these resignation suggestions be limited to President Truman? There are hold-over Democratic senators representing states which have just gone Republican. Should they resign, too? Many states in 1944 elected governors for a four-year term. If they were Democrats and the Republicans had just carried their states, should the governors resign? In general, should all officials, regardless of the length of their terms, resign whenever their party is defeated?

If the makers of the Constitution intended the President to retire whenever he lost control of Congress, why did they not say so? Why did they give him a four-year term and Congress two years? And if they were doing it now, would they do it the same way? All these matters are worth thinking about.

A telescope has been invented which enables the user to see a sextillion miles, which means a figure with 21 ciphers. It will thus allow him to see a vacant apartment ahead of the other 139,999,999 people.

DOUSING SMALL FIRES

The Columbians, a hate-mongering organization, are now being exposed. Some people deprecate the attention given to them, thinking that this is needless advertisement. Yet Nazism was a movement of small beginnings, and firemen do not think it a waste of time to be called to put out small fires.

"Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth."

THE NEW CHARITY

The Carnegie Institute with an endowment of 29 millions must depend now on public contributions to carry on its full program, according to the institute president, William Frew.

This is another instance of what is happening to endowed organizations including colleges and welfare agencies these days. Because of high operating costs covering equipment, supplies and labor returns on invested capital have shrunk. Rich and poor,

WHY NOT QUIT?

Is it even too dangerous to ask the question, why not quit? Yes, to quit the international conferences, to walk out, to say, goodbye. These conferences that go on endlessly, that have no conclusions, that produce no agreements—why continue with them?

It is obvious from the Ribbentrop-Molotov Agreement that in 1939 two plans existed for the total conquest of Europe. One was the Nazi plan, the other the Soviet plan. In the Stalin-Hitler Alliance with its secret Ribbentrop-Molotov Protocol, the two plans were amalgamated into a single plan, a division of Europe east of the Rhine into two spheres of influence. Those spheres were clearly defined in the Ribbentrop-Molotov Protocol, which was based on the most carefully kept secrets of diplomacy and was published in this column last Wednesday.

It was a union of aggressive countries bent upon aggressive warfare to conquer the smaller countries of Europe, and to force even the larger ones to accept a Nazi-Soviet hegemony. Germany already was in possession of Austria and Czechoslovakia and therefore of Hungary. Finland was in a pinners between Germany and Russia. Italy was a German ally, and Nazi influences had penetrated into all the Balkan states. Russia was consolidating the Baltic areas.

It was in this atmosphere that the Nazi attacked Poland, and Soviet Russia moved into Eastern Poland. This was the beginning and from it grew a horrible war. And the two might have moved together but for Hitler's hunch that there were still two plans; that the union of the plans was a temporary expedient and that sooner or later one of the partners would have to attack the other. It must never be forgotten that it was during this partnership that England stood alone for more than a year, taking such a striding as no other people had ever known and survived. It was England's willingness—nay, daring—to survive that upset all calculations and brought the partners closer to the decision to stab each other in the back.

Hitler was quicker on the draw. He gave up the campaign against England and went for Russia. He risked greatly, for Russia is one of the few geographical areas on Earth that has ample room for retreat. At Stalingrad, Hitler met sufficient resistance to spoil his plan to so weaken his erstwhile ally as to make of him a dependent.

Great Britain and the United States faced either a German or a Russian hegemony over Europe. History cannot deal with speculative what-might-have-beens. The fact is that Great Britain and the United States chose Russia as their ally and fed the Russian until he overpowered Great Britain and challenged the United States. Since long before the end of the war, at Moscow, Teheran and Yalta, and later at Potsdam and Paris, Soviet Russia has been maintaining the position that it alone conquered Germany and succeeded to the Ribbentrop-Molotov plan, which had now indeed become a single plan, one that would ultimately place the whole of Europe and much of Asia under a single power, Soviet Russia.

Everything that has happened at the Council of Foreign Ministers in Paris and New York, at every session of the United Nations, in every speech of Molotov, Vishinsky, and Gromyko, proves that Soviet Russia is playing for time in which to consolidate her control of all the conquered and "liberated" countries. And in every country including Italy, Great Britain and even the United States, Soviet Russia has succeeded in building an important indigenous support for her program. In every country, this support of Soviet Russia is a living cancer, eating away at the customs, traditions and habits of people, with the object of so weakening them that resistance becomes impossible. There can be no real peace until Russia's program is completely successful—or has been destroyed by war or by revolutionary actions.

What is the use of continuing the farce of conference and negotiation and speeches that lead to nothing? What does it all avail? The Russian will not quit his program of conquest; we can no longer be the partners to conquest and death.

GROWING TALLER

I have spoken before of the preparatory boarding school in which it was found that the length of the beds which suited the grandfathers and fathers was not long enough for the present students and longer beds had to be purchased.

Recently we have learned from military records that the average height of men in the United States and Canada in World War II was about an inch more than in World War I, a quarter century ago.

In the Statistical Bulletin, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, we learn that not only has the "average" height increased over this period, but the proportion of tall men among the recruits was also greater in the last war. In the age group 20 to 30 years, the proportion of men 5 feet 10 inches or over was 27.5 per cent as against 22.4 per cent in World War I. The proportions of six footers were 8.8 and 6.5 per cent respectively.

In other words the percentage of six-footers among young men is about one third greater at present than it was twenty-five years ago.

An interesting yet natural observation was that as a group the older men despite their physical fitness were shorter than the young men. Yet even in the older men, 35 to 38 today they are a little taller than at ages 21 to 28 in the first World War, who were born 15 years earlier. Even boys in their late teens 18 and 19 years old did not fully grow up today actually taller than those over 30 who have attained their full growth in childhood.

A study of the height of school children in Toronto shows that the typical elementary school boy or girl of six in 1939 was actually 2 inches taller than the child of the same age of 1892.

What does this increase in height mean?

There can be no question but that these very favorable findings with regard to increase in height reflect the improvement in general health and nutritional conditions over recent decades.

directly and indirectly, are feeling the pinch of the rising cost of living. One result in the case of programs like the Carnegie Institute's is that the interest as well as the support will be shared by more people. While there will be necessary adjustments and re-alignments in such proceedings, this is, nevertheless, the modern democratic principle at work.

Yes, "in union there is strength," but what that strength is used for is mighty important.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York, Dec. 2 (P)—Jimmy isn't on any list of American export products.

But he is going abroad. Some lucky country that wants American automobiles and books and vacuum cleaners is going to get Jimmy instead.

Young, carefree, grumpy Jimmy! And when he gets through teaching them his version of "the American way," the foreigners saddled with him are going to wonder if he's any bargain over the Germans.

Jimmy is going over on a "do good" mission for a philanthropic organization which I am not at liberty to identify. That's what the organization thinks. But carry out a private philanthropic program of his own—the personal enrichment of Jimmy at the least possible expenditure of energy he can put out.

Since Jimmy is symbolic of one kind of modern American carpet-bagger now going overseas to latten on foreign distress, it might be of interest to listen to him describe his plans in his own frank winning way.

"I was getting nowhere fast on the job I had," he said at a party the other day, "and besides there was too much work to do."

"I thought there must be something better than this for Jimmy," I looked around and heard about this deal and brother—this is just what the doctor ordered!

And Jimmy told it with happy gestures of his pale hands, guileless of callouses.

"I'll make about a hundred bucks per year, of course, per week. What'd you think? Per month? That's a laugh. Little Jimmy ever living on a hundred a month!"

"But the hundred bucks—that's just the beginning. I'm going to have a nice easy trip over. I've already fixed it up with a friend."

"At Century's Turn"

Two football games were played in Kingston on Election Day in 1907, with Ulster Academy defeating Newburgh by a score of 12 to 1, and Kingston Academy playing a tie game 6 to 6 with Poughkeepsie.

Ulster lined up that day with Arnold, Murphy, Baker, Cole, Connelly, Foley, Hanburger, Powell, Rowland, Cushman and Ormerod. The Kingston Academy players were Herrick, Clemens, Basten, Bernstein, Monroe, Tobey, Cole, Behrens, Dadds, Wolfsey and Horsfall.

Mayor Walter P. Crane was returned to office that day by a handsome majority, and the Republicans had control of the Common Council, electing eight of the 13 aldermen.

The Republican aldermen were Charles A. Schenck, Elmer E. Swart, A. W. Van Gansbeek, William McCullough, John F. Remus, E. Otis Van Aken, William DuRien and John Hein.

The five Democratic aldermen were: Thomas P. Clancy, Michael J. Rafferty, Martin J. Ward, George P. Zeel and George Leeper.

The only Democrat to win in Ulster county, outside the city, was Dr. W. E. E. Little, who was one of the two assemblymen selected by the voters. The other was Judge Joseph M. Fowler, a Republican. In those early years Ulster county had two, instead of the present one, members in the state assembly.

Albert H. Cook was elected county treasurer, William D. Cunningham, district attorney, and Abraham Kelder and Alexander C. Habsbrout, coroners.

The Republicans elected 19 supervisors, and the Democrats elected eight.

Turning for a minute to fireman matters it was on November 3, 1897, that two coal pockets of the Cornell Steamboat Co. on the Strand were destroyed in an early Sunday morning fire, and the tug John N. Courts was damaged so badly she was sunk in the Rondout creek to avoid total destruction.

According to an old clipping from The Freeman the fire started in the kitchen of the tug and spread to one end of the coal pockets. The crew on the tug was able to pull the vessel away from the dock and out into mid-stream, where the two coals were opened, allowing the tug to sink.

It is interesting to recall that Weber Hine Co., that was organized in 1861 at a meeting held on September 18, 1861, in the first house on Mill street, voted to disband the company.

If I remember correctly the fire company and was named in honor of George W. Hine, who had served as chief engineer of the fire department.

An old newspaper clipping says the reason for the company disbanded was due to the fact that they feared that they would be forced to become members of another fire company and lose their identity, under plans for the reorganization of the fire department that were under consideration by the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Charles L. McQuinn, who was a well known druggist with a retail store on Central Street, near Henry street, which was being operated by the family, on September 19, 1940, was elected vice president of the National Retail Druggists Association at the annual convention held that year in Chicago.

Older readers will recall Mr. McBride who, during the C. O. administration, was an active member of the Board of Health. He served as a member of that board for a number of years.

Labor Leaders Are Described as Living in Bygone Age, Lacking Public Confidence

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 2.—A wave of sentiment so powerful and unmistakable as to be reminiscent of the way in which other major movements of reform have welled up in the past is sweeping on toward Washington from all parts of the country to demand that the government do something about the labor situation.

The country is sick and tired of strikes and is fearful that economic recovery will be locked by economic chaos unless the authority of the Congress is asserted promptly.

The coal strike has merely confirmed a growing fear, namely that national labor union control themselves above the law and that they are calloused to public suffering and the public interest.

The labor leaders are living in a bygone age. The people have lost confidence in them. For they have sat idly by and offered only one concrete suggestion to avert labor-management strife—management must surrender. That suggestion amounts to a demand that wages be raised and management's profits virtually confiscated, irrespective of the effect on the economic system.

The public has been told again and again that new legislation will bring no remedy. This is the spacious claim of those labor leaders who under existing legislation would be able to perpetuate monopoly. The big corporations never wanted legislation either, but the nation's resentment over monopoly and trusts in the 30's caused a Republican Congress to enact the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

It is legislation already on the statute books which today is the basic cause of strikes and labor-management strife.

The Wagner Law has been the principal generator of friction. It needs drastic amendment. It was deliberately written as a one-sided law. Under the Wagner Law, an opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States said frankly that no matter how satisfactory relations have been between employer and his employees, such a relationship must be disturbed to conform to the provisions of the statute.

The best labor-management relations are those which are based on mutual trust and understanding. Under the Wagner Law this cannot be achieved, because the statute permits fraud and misrepresentation and violence and intimidation on the part of labor unions and their organizers while it prevents the employer from talking with his own employees frankly and candidly except at the risk of a law suit before the National Labor Relations Board.

The statute has been used and is being used to blackmail and coerce employers. It has provoked a state of war in industry and an incalculable loss of production. It has brought an atmosphere of class hostility which of course has always been the aim of Communism.

There are other laws besides the Wagner Act which need revision. It should be made unlawful, for example, for any employer to refuse to hire a prospective employee solely because he is not a member of a union or will not join one. It should be unlawful for any labor union to conduct a strike or to violate such a law. That would end the "closed shop" in America—and it should be ended. The coal strike has illustrated how dangerous a "closed shop" multiplicity can become.

The coal miners are helpless today. They can't work even if they want to work. They would be expelled from the union, and since the miners' union has a contract forbidding an employer to employ anyone who is not "in good standing" in the union, the miner cannot expect ever to get a job unless he follows the orders of John L. Lewis.

The sympathy of the nation might well be extended to these helpless miners who are caught in the straitjacket. For the Wagner law permits a contract discriminating against a worker who refuses to join a union. The law says such contracts must be "voluntary" when entered into by unions and employers, but every body knows the word "voluntary" in actual practice is a mockery. Rarely ever has a "closed shop" contract been signed by an employer except under duress.

The American people are witnessing an example of super-government—an exercise of authority by national unions which defies strict legal operations. The answer may come in a sweeping revision of all labor laws to make unions amenable to the public interest exactly as are corporations, but leaving individuals free to work or quit work as they please. It is no more "involuntary servitude" to regulate a union than it is to regulate a cooperative or a corporation.

Labor union leaders could have averted the avalanche that is coming now. But like certain spokesmen of big business in the old days, the union leaders are blind to their own mistakes. They would be able to preserve many of their social gains if they exhibited a conciliatory spirit. But, unfortunately for the opposition, the labor leaders want battle to the finish; and they are getting it now in the court of public opinion.

Every year a promissory labor leader is lined up on the side of economic force and against the public interest as the government seeks merely to secure respect from the miners' union for the processes of the judiciary. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

"Help us, Emily!" pleaded young Dr. Joseph Wales on a bleak afternoon a few months before Christmas, 1907. "Otherwise we'll have to turn out those poor sufferers to die."

For the last hour, he and his cousin, Emily Bissell, Wilmington, Del., social worker, had been reviewing the dogged dating experiment of a group of Wilmington doctors who sought to cure tuberculosis, the No. 1 killer of the times. In an age when people believed the white plague doomed its victims to certain death, they had assembled eight charity patients in a little shack on the banks of the Brandywine for which they paid Alfred duPont a dollar-a-year rent, and were trying the effects of fresh air, rest and the right food. The patients were making progress, but the funds had run out. So Dr. Wales appealed to his cousin for help.

That's how the Christmas tuberculosis stamp was born. Most people would have quailed and quit before the problem. What

Five Persons Die In Bridge Crash

Three-Car Smash Near George Washington Injures Seven

Englewood, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP)—A three-car collision near the approach to the George Washington bridge resulted in the deaths of five persons and injuries to seven others early yesterday.

The crash occurred when two westbound automobiles locked bumpers, careened across a safety island and smashed into a third machine carrying three married couples. The tangled wreckage then burst into flames.

Three of the dead, each a member of a couple, were in the third machine. The other two fatalities were the sole passengers in the first car whose rear bumper locked with the front bumper of the other car as it was attempting to pass it. None of the four passengers in the second car was injured seriously.

Garment Industry Reports Pensions Equalling Security

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Workers in the men's garment industry who have reached the age of 70 will be able to retire next month with pensions matching funds paid them by the Federal Social Security program.

In announcing the industry-wide old age retirement plan, Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (C.I.O.) and Raymond H. Reiss, president of the Clothing Manufacturers Association of the U. S., said that workers will be able to retire at 65 some time in 1948.

The sponsors estimated that $1,500,000 would be paid annually and that 2,200 men and women union members would benefit. An additional requirement for eligibility is 20 years service in the industry. The retirement fund was created in December, 1945, financed by a three per cent payroll levy on employers. The workers do not contribute.

An additional two per cent payroll tax finances a system of life, health, accident, hospitalization and maternity insurance.

Dewey Has Naught To Say About '48 At Miami Hotel

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—If governors assembling here for a series of meetings follow the lead of New York's Thomas E. Dewey, there'll be few political pronouncements in the week ahead.

After a brief interview in which he declined a prediction as to the 1948 election, Dewey withdrew to his ocean front hotel suite away from all visitors or telephone calls.

As a leader in the Republican party which recaptured both houses of congress on last month's general election, Dewey was asked his opinion of the outcome of the balloting in '48, a presidential year. Dewey smiled broadly but limited his reply to, "I do not wear the robes of a prophet."

The chief executives will hold three sessions during their stay here.

Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, chairman of the executive committee of the National Governors' Conference, was busy preparing for that meeting today. The Council of State Governors meets tomorrow and Wednesday.

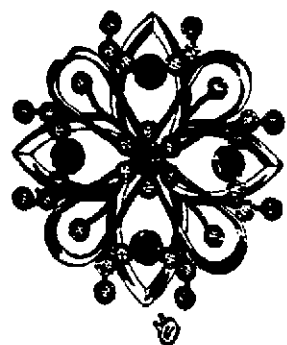

State Traffic Shows Increase, 64 Per Cent

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Traffic on New York state's highways increased by about 64 per cent in the year following the end of gasoline rationing.

The average hourly flow of 6,800 vehicles compared with 4,140 at the same points in 1945, the department said. The count included these 1946 and 1945 averages, respectively: Albany, 63,506, 51,711; Binghamton, 42,678, 29,019; Buffalo, 132,096, 87,630; Elmira, 26,993, 17,016; Rochester, 75,420, 60,364; Schenectady, 48,966, 38,576; Syracuse, 54,528, 37,869; Yonkers (excluding traffic to and from New York city) 50,333, 38,686.

Television Chases Rainbows and Wins

Will Move Into Tinted Scenes Faster Than Its Predecessors

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Nov. 30 — Television is following almost the same path beaten by still photography and the motion picture in its transition from black and white to color.

But television as a new science apparently is to move into tinted scenes a lot faster than did its predecessors, in visual reproduction.

It's just barely started as black and white, or monochrome, and already various methods have been devised to switch it into color.

This early introduction of color has led to a certain amount of controversy over how soon it would be ready for the public and has been accomplished by demonstrations of two systems on how it can be done.

The first to be developed is known as the color disc, in that it shows a series of colored dots.

Electronic devices such as the cathode ray picture tube, at present has an added motor operated unit.

The other system, as yet in its beginning stages, is described as all-electronic. It is based on special cathode ray tubes.

Takes Wider Wave Band
Because of its inherent characteristics, color television requires more space in the ether than black and white. To meet that condition, experimental wide-band channels ranging from 480 to 920 megacycles have been authorized. These are much higher in the spectrum than the 13-narrower-band channels spaced at intervals from 50 to 216 megacycles allotted to commercial black and white.

Now, let's take a look at the color disc system. It is the work of Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, research director of the Columbia Broadcasting system, and was given its initial public showing in 1940. Not the first color attempt, one of the earlier ones coming a decade or more ago in the Bell Laboratories, it nonetheless was a much closer approach to a practical method.

The color effect, in both camera and receiver, is obtained by inserting a motor-driven color mask or disc, containing six segments alternately red, green and blue, in front of the cathode ray tube. This device must be kept in exact step at transmitter and receiver. Without the mask, the picture would be black and white.

Pictures are sent so that each particular color image follows one after the other, providing sequential transmission. Nature of the emitted wave is such that present black and white sets could not be adapted without rebuilding. Best results have been obtained so far with direct view, that is the 8 by 10-inch picture appearing on the large end of the receiver tube.

A System of Blending
Designers of the newly announced all-electronic system, who are engineers of the Radio Corporation of America laboratories at Princeton, N. J., and include Ray D. Kell, have taken a different tack.

Their receiver has a "trinoscope," actually three small cathode ray tubes mounted together. Each produces a different primary color, and right at the start project the image on a 15 by 20-inch screen.

In the camera a special scanning tube supplies the light which is passed through the source of the image, such as a slide or a movie film, into color filters and then on to separate photo-electric cells.

Set Obsolescence Avoided
Form of the wave also differs from the sequential system. Transmission is simultaneous, each color being sent continuously and not one after the other. This idea was incorporated, the engineers said, to fit color into the present black and white system so that one could work with the other and avoid set obsolescence.

Thus, they added, one section of the wave, the "green," contains enough information to function on a black and white set provided it has a tuning adapter to bring in color transmissions. Reproduction, naturally, still is black and white.

On the other hand, a black and white signal can be received on the "green" side of the color receiver, although the picture has a green tint.

The all-electronic method so far is only in the laboratory stage, with an estimated four-year job ahead to make it function to the full. On the other hand C.B.S. has been contending that its system is ready.

Soda Pop On Ice
To keep your favorite beverage from becoming diluted but maintain its frosty cool, freeze cubes of the beverage in the ice cube container of your refrigerator, then add the cubes to the drink just before serving.

Boosters Claim Title for 3, Georgia, Notre Dame, U.C.L.A.

Navy's Inspired Play Against Army Puts Cadets Somewhat Down Scale

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Boosters of Notre Dame, Georgia and U.C.L.A. are claiming the college grid title today on the basis of Army's close call with Navy in the final pre-bowl roundup of the 1946 season.

Georgia and U.C.L.A. rank at the top of the 14 unbeaten, untied eleven in the nation on the strength of their major schedules, but the Irish from South Bend, who wound up a defeatless campaign by trouncing Southern California, 26-6, have a valid claim through their 0-0 tie with the cadets.

Army still could point to a shiny record of 27 victories and only one tie over a three-year span although they were within a couple of strides of a shocking defeat by the inspired Middles Saturday at Philadelphia. Army won 21-18.

Charlie Trippi put on a show, designed to strengthen his bid for an all-America rating, by scoring three touchdowns and passing for a fourth in Georgia's romp over Georgia Tech, 35-7. Shortly after the game, the Bulldogs were invited to oppose North Carolina, 49-14, victors over Virginia, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

The U.C.L.A. Bruins warmed up for their Rose Bowl date with Illinois by downing Nebraska "under wraps," 18-0, with Illinois scouts in the stands. Running up 453 yards, the Bruins boosted their season scoring total to 313 points.

Although scattered games involving at least one conference title, the Big Seven, remain to be played, most of the teams finished their seasons Saturday. The exceptions are the 40 or so eleven who are due to meet in at least 20 post-season tilts from Dec. 7 through New Year's Day.

Bowl Teams Already Named

Most of the bowl promoters have named the competing teams. St. Mary's and Georgia Tech falling in line for an oil bowl hooking at Houston yesterday. Invitations also were extended to Virginia Tech and Southern Methodist for a Sun Bowl tilt at El Paso. St. Mary's downed San Francisco Sunday 6-0 and S.M.U. drubbed Texas Christian 30-13, Saturday.

Rice assured itself of a share of the Southwest Conference crown by whipping Baylor, 38-6, tying Arkansas which will joust with Louisiana State, 41-27, winners over Tulane, in the Dallas Cotton Bowl, January 1, Tennessee, which faces Rice in the Miami Orange Bowl, just squeezed past Vanderbilt, 7-6, in its finale.

Hardin-Simmons concluded a perfect season by whipping Texas Tech, 21-6, assuring San Antonio of an attractive Alamo Bowl hooking with H.S. against Denver which can clinch the Big Seven crown by downing Utah State Saturday. Other important games in the states Saturday will send Baylor to Texas mines and unbeaten Bates to Toledo for the Glass Bowl struggle.

North Carolina State smothered Maryland, 28-7, in preparation for a "Gator Bowl" game at Jacksonville. And College of the Pacific, which meets North Texas State at Houston in the Optimist Bowl, December 21 shaded San Diego State, 19-13.

Kramer, Schroeder Reach Semi-Finals

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 2 (AP)—Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder reached the doubles semi-finals in the Victorian Tennis championships today by defeating Dinky Pails and Lionel Brodie of Australia, 6-2, 10-8 and 13-11 in a blistering match.

The American duo was erratic and only Kramer's ability always to win his service with a minimum of difficulty saved them from serious trouble.

Also reaching the semi-final doubles round were Billy Talbert and Gardner Mulloy who scored a 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 victory over Jack Crawford and Bill Sidwell.

Tom Brown, looking pale and worn after three days abed, teamed with Frank Parker to win a postponed first round doubles match from George Worthington and Frank Sedgman, two promising Australian Juniors, 6-3, 4-6, 11-9, 9-4.

Parker carried his partner carefully, playing four out of every five shots and letting Brown take it easy.

In a singles match, Crawford virtually eliminated Geoff Brown from consideration for the Australian Cup team by upsetting him, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

"Raffles" has laid low for six weeks.

Rose Schatzel Rips 696 Series In Mixed League Sunday Night

Local Bowling Queen Tops Her Highest Triple With 268 for Loop High

Mrs. Rose Schatzel, the bowling queen of the Hudson Valley, reached the highest pinnacle of her career Sunday evening in the Mixed Bowling League when she rattled the Central Recreation alley drives for a tremendous 696 triple to spark Kaye Sportswear to three victories over Williams Lake. The clean sweep shoved Kayes into first place with a two game lead over the Slover-Jansen-Schline combine.

Featuring her terrific triple, which is her number one threetimer of her career, Mrs. Schatzel also pounded a tremendous 268 single in her middle game after opening with 191. She finished with 237 for her 696 series.

Just two weeks ago Rose sprayed the midtown pins for a gaudy 670 triple in the Colonial Women's League on scores of 225, 235 and 210. It was her second highest triple in her career as she had posted a 674 earlier.

Besides, taking over the headlines in the entire league Sunday evening Rose now paces the loop in both high single and high triple records. Her 268 single tops the former high of 245 by Margie Jansen while her 696 triple surpasses her own 640 three-timer rolled earlier in the Mixed League schedule.

The 696 series also passed Johnny Ferraro's 679 mark while Rose's 268 topped Ferraro's and Nick Turck's 245 single for the male koglers in the Sunday evening circuit.

While Rose was banging the Central Rec pins with ease Sunday evening, Johnny "Red" Schatzel completed the husband-wife duo by taking over the high single for men in the league with his hefty 261 mark in the final game and wound up with a 655 triple.

Other results in the league Sunday night found the Colonial Cleaners winning two from Slover-Jansen-Schline, Wilher Coal taking a pair from the United Cleaners and The Chalet winning all three from Leventhals.

Scores of the Kaye-Williams Lake match and all other league matches will be published in Tuesday's Freeman.

'Y' Senior Cage Loop Opens Tuesday Night

Three Games Slated Starting at 7 P. M.; First Half Closes January 16

A big basketball triple-header will inaugurate the opening of the regular 1946-47 Y.M.C.A. Senior Basketball League Tuesday night with the first tilt scheduled for 7 o'clock at the "Y" boards.

Potter Brothers, winners of the Madden Aces in the opening contest, The midway clash brings together the V.F.W., runner-up in the autumn loop, and the Hustlers. The final tilt scheduled for 9 o'clock will pit the Aborn five against the Pioneer A. C.

Expects Big Season

Many changes have been made in the personnel of the various teams, Lou Schafer, "Y" physical director, announced this morning, when he commented that one of the best years yet was in the offing for his quintets. "We should have a lot of real good ball games this winter," Lou asserted when looking over the league roster.

The Pioneer A. C. quintet is an all-negro team with a number of local high school players on the roster. The Pioneers are newcomers to the basketball circle of Kingston. Other loop managers expect plenty of competition when their teams meet the Pioneer Club.

Mr. Schafer also said this morning that he has been making arrangements for good seating facilities at the "Y" games. "We expect better crowds to see the contests this year," Lou said "and we want to be able to handle the turnout."

The Y.M.C.A. physical boss also declared that a better basketball will be in the offing this season largely due to last week's basketball movie "Basketball Up-to-Date." "The boys gained a lot out of just that one picture," Lou said.

The public is invited to the "Y" league games. A small admission will be charged.

Baseball Moguls Convene on Coast; Bramham Retires

George Trautman Holds Lead as Successor to Bramham; Big Meeting Dec. 7

Los Angeles, Dec. 2 (AP)—Hundreds of baseball bigwigs moved in from all directions today, and this slightly football-dizzy town surrendered to exponents of the so-called national pastime.

Leading off a full week of individual major and minor league sessions, officials of the American Association, the Pacific Coast and Eastern Leagues scheduled confabs behind closed doors to thresh out respective affairs today.

With minor organizations holding sway the first part of the week, major attention centered on a successor to Judge William G. Bramham, who disclosed Saturday that he intends retiring as president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

The minors' executive committee met privately last night, and while no official word was given out, it was reported George M. Trautman, executive vice president of the Detroit Tigers, has the inside track as Bramham's successor. The judge wants to step down because of failing health. He's had the job since 1932.

Opposition to Trautman was anticipated, however, on the grounds he is a big league man and an official of a club with extensive farm interests.

The major leagues take over the latter part of the week, with the big joint meeting set for Saturday. Slated to arrive today to preside was Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Frank Lane, new president of the American Association, sounded a harmonious note when he said he anticipated no controversy between the minor and major groups in reaching an agreement over the new major-minor operating agreement.

Heavy Ticket Sale Indicates Another Packed Auditorium

B'nai B'rith Bill Offers Top Amateur Battlers: Baker-Brooks Match Also Prompts Sale

Heavy ticket sales are reported by Dr. Murray Greene for Wednesday night's B'nai B'rith boxing card in the municipal auditorium, featuring Jackie Keaugh, Cleveland welterweight star and Tony Burrone of Schenectady in the main five-round attraction. The first bout starts at 9 p. m.

"Ever since the announcement about the return of Burrone, orders have been pouring in," the uptown chiropractor told a reporter. The Schenectady ring star, prior to an extended rest to let a nose injury heal, fought three sensational bouts in Kingston. He decided two of New York city's best welters, Buddy Matthews and Clarence Alleyne, and knocked out Rome's Joe Frasca.

Jackie Keaugh, his opponent on Wednesday, made a decided hit with local boxing fans by pounding out a victory over Ike Jenkins, metropolitan star, in a five rounder on October 31. Ringsiders classed Keaugh as one of the classic amateur pugilists seen around these parts in a long time.

Paul Simpson, another Cleveland luminary, won't be able to keep his date with Tiny Townsend, local light-heavyweight, because of weight differences. Dan Harris, Paul's stablemate, will take over for the scrap with Townsend, who can't get below the 175-pound mark. Simpson, natural middleweight, tipped the beam at 168 last July 25 when he knocked out Chick Cannotta here.

Townsend, who has been training at the Y.M.C.A., hopes to add knockout No. 2 to the string he started by polishing off Gil Brown here on the last card. "Brown was an easy one for me, not like Bill Cunningham," said Tiny who lost to the Clevelander in a hectic five rounder. "These boys from the Midwest can really fight. I know it and will be ready for Harris. I want to score another knockout."

A bout that is as attractive as the main go, as far as many fans are concerned, is the match between Tommy Baker, Gloversville featherweight, and Paul Brooks of Cleveland, a Golden Gloves champion.

Although Brooks has met some rugged, hard-hitting amateurs in his tours around the country, followers of Baker believe that the little upstate power-socket will give him one of his toughest fights.

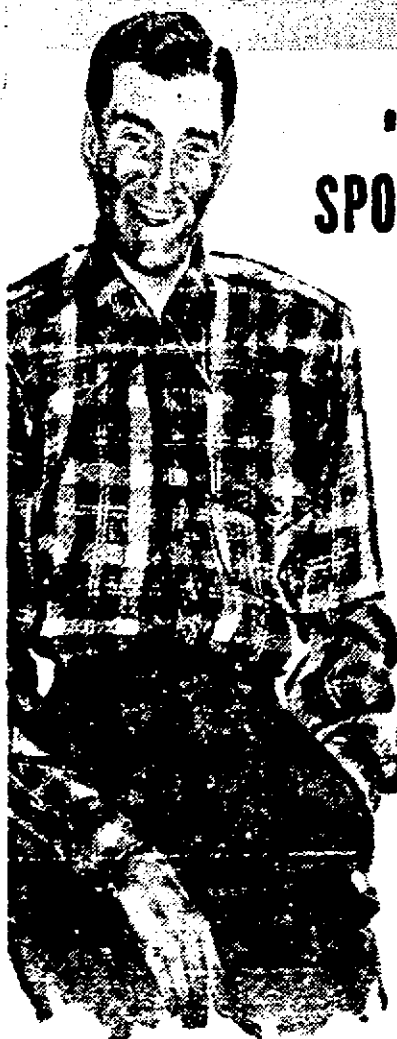

Some of the best preliminary fighters in the Adirondack A.A.U. will be matched with local favorites for the three-round attractions, according to B'nai B'rith officials.

derby today with a total of 124 points in 11 games.

With most of the teams having concluded their schedules, Victor appeared certain to win the 1946 title on a total of 14 touchdowns and 40 points after touchdown.

Scoring three touchdowns, and kicking eight extra points in Oklahoma City's 76-6 romp over Dakota Wesleyan, Victor moved ahead of Gene Roberts of Chattanooga, last week's leader. Roberts' two touchdowns in his last game boosted his scoring record to 117 points.

Mary Yonnetti Bride At Wedding Sunday In Rosendale Church

The wedding of Miss Mary Yonnetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rose Yonnetti of Rosendale, to Joseph Mazowiecki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Mazowiecki of Brooklyn, took place Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William J. McDonald.

Miss Mary Joyce as soloist sang "Ave Maria." She was accompanied by Elsie Yonnetti, organist. Thomas Yonnetti escorted his sister. She wore a broad satin gown with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves, fitted bodice and skirt en train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried a prayer book with an orchid.

Miss Joanne Macchione of East Kingston as maid of honor wore a pink gown similar to the bride's, a matching picture hat and carried yellow pompons. Andy R. Mazowiecki was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Williams Lake. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Mazowiecki left for a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich. For traveling the bride wore a winter white dress with matching accessories and fur coat. Upon their return they will live on Main street, Rosendale.

Mrs. Mazowiecki attended Kingston High School and is employed at the Lipgar Photo Studio. Mr. Mazowiecki is a veteran of World War II having served in the Air Corps and overseas in Europe.

Castle Point Visited Sunday by Local Group

Miss Alice M. Scardfield, grand treasurer of the Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York, drove to Castle Point Veterans' Hospital Sunday afternoon in another trip to take donations to the patients. Enough cigarettes were sent to supply the entire hospital and magazines were also donated by the Misses Rice of Wurts street.

Accompanying Miss Scardfield were Miss Joan Brice of Connelly, Miss Fannie Modica and Sophie Miller of this city. Although Miss Modica had been a frequent visitor during the war years, this was her first visit for some time, since she has been employed in government work in Washington, D. C., and Albany. She sang a number of songs for the patients including Italian songs.

Ward entertainment through the cold weather for the shut-in patients is appreciated. There is also a demand for albums of records since various organizations are donating electric record players. The veterans are quite anxious to have a record cutting machine, also, which could be taken from ward to ward. There is still need for knitted robes for the many new patients.

UPSTAIRS AND DOWN!

A reader asks: "Could you please settle a little argument for us? A friend and I were discussing whether or not it is proper for a man to precede a woman up the stairs. What about going downstairs?"

A quaint old rule says he "follows her up and precedes her down." The reason being that should she trip she would fall on him and not the other way around. In the present day, when stairs are neither steep nor dangerous, she precedes him unless they walk side by side.

White Linen a Summer Material

Dear Mrs. Post: I was going to be married during the summer and the wedding had to be postponed. Now it will be an early winter ceremony. Would it be impossible for me to wear the white linen suit I had intended to wear last summer?

Answer: I am sorry, but white linen would look very out-of-season unless you live in the far South where summer clothes are worn the year around.

Introducing a Clergyman

Dear Mrs. Post: When introducing or presenting a minister of the gospel to an audience, which of the following forms, if any, is correct: The Rev. Paul Jones; Rev. Paul Jones; Rev. Jones; The Rev. Mr. Jones?

Answer: If he is a Doctor of Divinity, then "The Rev. Dr. Jones" is right. If not, then "The Rev. Mr. Jones."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to display the wedding presents at the reception when the reception is not taking place at the house? If not, then how can people look at the presents if they wish?

Answer: They never should be taken to a public place, not because it is improper, but because it is impractical. Usually, interested friends are invited to see the presents on display at the bride's house a day or two before the wedding. It is not usual but under certain circumstances it is proper to show them afterwards.

Not Sports Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: What should a gentleman wear to the opera on a Saturday afternoon?

Answer: Ordinary town clothes would be proper. It is not necessary that he wear formal ones. On the other hand, country (sport) clothes would be incorrect.

For Mrs. Post's booklet 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings," send 10 cents in coin and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York, 19, N. Y. (Published by The Daily Freeman, Inc.)

Of Boston Dispensary Workers

Bronx Woman Beaten And Robbed by Two

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The beating and robbing of a young Bronx woman in her apartment Saturday afternoon was disclosed to police today as they sought two men accused of the crime.

Mrs. Viola Golding, 27, of 1816 15th avenue, the Bronx, reported to police that she was alone in her apartment at 2 o'clock when she heard a knock at the door. When she asked who was there a man's voice replied:

"I have the films for your husband's camera."

Golding's husband is a commercial photographer and she permitted the visitor to enter. The man, she told police, beat her, placed a gag in her mouth and tied her hands behind her. Then the man asked:

"Where's the new camera?"

"Where's your new cocktail watch?"

Mrs. Golding told police she indicated where the articles were—the watch being valued at $500 and the camera at $275—and her assailant whistled and an accomplice entered and picked up the watch and camera. The two fled. Mrs. Golding managed to release herself from the bonds and telephoned police.

Government Offers Evidence at Trial

Lewis never disclosed his direct demands in the mine dispute before cancelling the contract was cross-examined closely by Welly K. Hopkins, Lewis' chief attorney. Hopkins pursued the same line of questioning as he did before the court recessed on Friday.

This was intended to show that the government had not called on the Wage Stabilization Board for approval of disputes over the coal contract prior to November 1.

The court inquired last week as to why Lewis had not submitted the current dispute to the Wage Stabilization Board, as permitted under the Smith-Connally Act instead of serving the "termination" notice which precipitated the coal strike.

Collison acknowledged again that in some instances the government had not filed notices of disputes with W.S.B.

By this questioning of Collison, the U.M.W. counsel apparently sought to prove there had been no interference with the "sovereign" functions of government, and thus, that Judge Goldsborough's "stop strike" restraining order was void.

Goldsborough has held that the sovereign power is involved and that the Norris-LaGuardia Act, restraining use of court injunctions in labor disputes, does not apply in this case.

Outside the court room, these were the developments: Southern coal mine owners gathered to thresh out sharp differences as to whether contract negotiations should be re-opened with the United Mine Workers. If a contract agreement could be reached, it would open the way for ending the strike and returning the mines, now held by the government, to private operations.

Surveys indicated that 1,000,000 persons in coal-dependent industries are out of work by the end of the year if the work of 400,000 miners continues. Over the week-end the jobless total hit the 100,000 mark.

Testimony Delayed

Testimony from cabinet-level witnesses was delayed by cross-examination of Navy Captain N. H. Collison, federal coal mines administrator, begun before the trial was recessed Friday.

A high official told a reporter that before the government completes its case it expects to call most of the officials who signed affidavits supporting the Nov. 18 order in which Goldsborough directed Lewis to withdraw "termination" of the U.M.W.'s contract with the government. It was Lewis' disregard for order which led to the contempt charge.

These officials include Secretary of Interior Krug, who signed for the government the coal contract which Lewis has declared void; Secretary of War Patterson; Secretary of the Navy Forrestal; Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small and Defense Transportation Director J. Monroe Johnson.

Krug may take the stand tomorrow. Today, he had a date with the House Surplus Property Committee. The committee wants him to testify on the possibility of utilizing the wartime big and little inch pipelines to carry natural gas to the east to ease the coal shortage.

There were increasing indications that the court battle will be a long one.

May Finish by Wednesday

Government attorneys estimated that their case against Lewis may be completed by Wednesday. At that time, the defense plans at least two days of rebuttal arguments, and more time may be needed if witnesses for the union leader are called.

And a hearing on the restraining order probably will follow the contempt trial.

If Lewis is found guilty of contempt—and Goldsborough has said flatly that he believes Lewis is guilty—the union plans to carry the fight to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

With this in mind, the U.M.W. leader's attorneys are building a case in the present trial designed to show that government operation of the mines is seized is only a "token operation," and that for this reason the sovereign power of the government is not involved.

Goldsborough held that it was when he ruled last week that the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act does not apply in the Lewis case. He said the court had a right to enjoin a labor union when a "potential public calamity" threatened.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The stock market slipped into lower territory today without being given much of a push.

Buying enthusiasm was said to have been cooled appreciably by continuance of the coal dispute and its possible repercussions on virtually all lines of business. While hopes that the labor situation would take a turn for the better brought bidding here and there, it was too timid to have much effect on trends. Tax selling persisted as a handicap.

Dealings slowed after a fairly active start but losses of fractions to 2 or more points predominated near the fourth hour.

Stumblers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific Railway, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Goodyear, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, American Telephone, Kennecott, DuPont, Dow Chemical and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Bonds skidded. Grains were mixed and cotton easy.

Small Oil Burner To Help 1948 Autos Start in Winter

Detroit, Dec. 2 (AP)—Among the things to look for in the 1948 model automobiles will be engines that will start as readily in sub-zero temperatures as mid-summer weather.

If current indications are borne out this will be achieved through the installation—as an integral part of the power plant—of a toy-size oil burner designed to automatically keep the coolant in the engine water-jacket at a constant temperature whether the engine is operating or standing idle.

Ward's automotive reports, first to report development of the device, describes it as a product of the engineering department of General Motors Truck & Coach division, and calls it "a forward step in automotive vehicle design potentialities of almost revolutionary scope."

With the tiny burner, using a virtually negligible amount of fuel, the engine will be kept warm, even if the car is parked out of doors all day or all night in the coldest weather. The warm engine means immediate vaporization of the gasoline; instant flowing of crankcase oil; greatly lowered oil dilution; longer life for bearings and pistons, and, of course, virtually no battery drain.

The device, well beyond the experimental stage, already has been installed in some buses and is reported to be performing up to all expectations.

Kayes Blast City Record in Winning Saturday Evening

Rose Schatzel, Ev Moore Pace Locals to Third Straight Match Win of Campaign

The Kaye Sportswear keglers, Kingston's all-star female bowling aggregation, posted a new city record triple of 2729 in their exhibition match Saturday night at the Central Rec alleys. The 2729 was a new city record which surpassed the 2720 total rolled by Mary Kite's Syracuse Process Keglers here in 1940 against the Barbizon five.

Kayes splashed the new record in the scheduled match with the Middletown All-Stars and highlighted the show with a sizzling 973 middle game which was one of the highest singles on local lanes. Rose Schatzel led the Kingston contingent to its third straight victory of the season when she unloaded a 599 triple on games of 202, 200 and 197. Evelyn Moore cracked 579 with a healthy 235 single spotlighting her mark. Charlotte Lapine rolled 533 and Betty Boyce posted 520. Margie Jansen, completing the local five, hit 498.

The Woodstock quintet is slated to meet Port Ewen Friday night.

Fails in Arizona

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 2 (AP)—Ten red-coated riders put on an English-style hunt in Arizona yesterday—despite opposition from the Old-time Anti-hunters. Fox Hunting Association—but the dogs somehow didn't get the point at all.

They failed to pick up the scent any place along the five-mile course, much to the glee of members of the old timers' association who maintain the only way to hunt is western style. They organized last week after hearing of plans for yesterday's ride.

A real fox wasn't used. But a burial bag, left in a coyote warren overnight, was dragged along the course shortly before the hunt started.

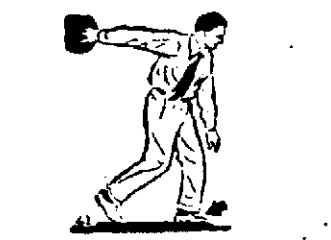

J. Manford Cartwright of the anti-hunters organization commented: "Humph! They shoulda used one of them high toned scents from a beauty parlor, 'stead of a good western coyote. What real cowhand would waste his time on a Sunday doing such a silly thing?"

BODY BALANCE: The illustration shows excellent body balance at the top of the backswing as the second step is taken in a two-step delivery. The ball as swung back easily, in a long arc, so that the arm is fully extended.

It is the natural result when the push-away is used—the ball being pushed well outward and away from the body in unison with the first step with the right foot. It is the simple secret of easy and consistent timing of the swing.

Note that the left foot is pointed straight ahead. So is the head. Eyes are front. The left arm is about to be extended and lifted upward for further body balance in the subsequent two steps of the stride (run) to the foul line.

As mentioned in a previous article, it is important that the second step be HEAVY, the weight of the body swinging over completely on the leg. If the step is too light, or too fast the weight of the swinging 16 pound ball is sure to throw the body out of kilter and off direction in the succeeding two steps.

Running in a straight line means delivering the ball along the same course. It means control and only by planting the weight of the body solidly on the left leg with the SECOND STEP can a straight run be maintained.

Heifers for China

Ithaca—Two freight cars carried 45 heifers out of New York State the night before Thanksgiving on the first lap of their journey to China. The heifers were contributed for overseas relief by dairy farmers or purchased with funds given by church and farm groups throughout the state. Both city and rural groups have contributed. The heifers came from points as widely separated as Washington and Chautauque counties. One car was loaded at Binghamton and the other at Wellsville. The heifers were well-bred dairy stock and are to freshen after their arrival over seas. They will go to farmers and to institutions in devastated North China which have sufficient feed to keep them in good production, and which have mal-nourished children.

Coupe Goes Into Rondout Creek, Two Men Dunked

Two men had a narrow escape from drowning when the Ford convertible coupe in which they were riding suddenly swerved from the road on Dock street, in the rear of the Forst Packing Co. plant and plunged into the slip of the Rondout creek at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

According to a police report, two men, William F. Brush of Indian Valley Inn, Kerhonkson, who was driving, and Francis Atkins of Napanoch, riding with him, managed to break a hole through the top of the convertible roof, climb out of the car and swim through the icy water to the shore.

The coupe, which sank in about 10 feet of water, was hauled from the slip by a wrecker of Van Kleef's Garage on East Chester street on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Brush reported to the police that while driving north on Dock street the front wheel went bad and the car swerved and shot off the road and into the slip.

Right Wing Shows Gains in Germany

ity of the landtag's 180 parliament seats, winning 104 places for a loss of five. The Social Democrats were second with 54 seats, gaining eight over the number they held in the constitutional convention. By popular vote, the biggest gains were scored by the right wing economic reconstruction party and the extreme-right wing Free Democratic Party, although their gains in parliamentary seats were less pronounced. The economic reconstructionists won 13 seats. A gain of four, and the Free Democrats won nine for a gain of two. Although the Bavarian Communists gained in popular vote, their votes were so widely distributed they did not win a single seat in parliament. They held nine seats in last summer's constitutional assembly.

Bavaria's popular vote gave the Christian Social Union 1,595,025, compared with 1,584,679 in the last election; The Social Democrats 873,030, compared with a previous 785,538; The Economic Reconstruction party 225,922, compared with their former 137,525; the Free Democratic party 172,261, compared with 68,629 before; and the Communists 185,178, compared with 144,676 previously.

The vote on the Bavarian constitution was 2,092,385 in favor and 871,027 against. In greater Hesse, the constitution won by a vote of 1,165,710 to 350,358. The socialization of industry provision fared almost as well, with 1,081,124 "yes" votes to 422,159 "no."

The party vote in greater Hesse was: Social Democrats 686,423; Christian Democratic Union 495,667; Liberal Democrats 251,430; and the Communists 171,373. Seventy-five percent of the eligible voters cast ballots in Bavaria and 77.4 percent in greater Hesse.

Eggs, Cheese Drop

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Wholesale prices for eggs on the mercantile exchange broke 1 to 3 cents a dozen today. Increased receipts were partly responsible for the drop, and traders who are waiting for lower prices said values would have declined further today had not the sharp drop in temperatures come overnight. Cheese also dipped three cents a pound for some grades following the lowering of prices on the Wisconsin market last Friday. Increased demand for butter lifted values about 2 cents a pound.

Christmas Jelly

Cook 1 quart of berries and 1/2 cup of water rapidly in a covered saucepan about 15 minutes or until berries are soft. Strain through a fine sieve, add 2 cups of sugar, stir and cook about 3 minutes, or until the juice gives the 2-drop jelly test from a spoon. Pour into hot clean glasses and let stand until cool and "set." Cover with paraffin and store in a cool, dry, dark place.

Three Are Held In Greenwich on Rape, Kidnaping

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 2 (AP)—Three men pleaded innocent today in Greenwich town court to a charge of raping a 17-year-old Stamford girl and, after listening briefly to testimony, Judge Archibald Tunick ordered them bound over to the next term of the criminal side of Fairfield County Superior Court.

The three were Salvatore Longo, 19, and Romeo Urso, 18, of Stamford, rounded up by Stamford and Greenwich police early Sunday. Their bonds were reduced from $30,000 to $10,000 each.

Only two persons testified in court this morning, the complainant, and Det. Sgt. J. William Burke of Greenwich.

Stamford Detectives John McInerney and William Tynes, who investigated, said the girl, who had spent Saturday evening at a party in Southfield Village, an apartment residential section of Stamford, was seized while waiting for a bus to return to her home, and forced into an auto, by three men.

She was driven to a lonely section of Cos Cob where, she claims, each raped her, reported the detectives.

The girl told them, McInerney and Tynes said, that when she informed the men that she was going to tell the police, one of them pulled a knife on her and threatened to kill her.

Then, according to the detectives, she was returned to Stamford and released about three-quarters of a mile from where she had been seized. She staggered back to Southfield Village where she told her story and police were notified.

Detectives William Burke and Edmund Conner of the Greenwich police, who joined in rounding up the suspects, and McInerney and Tynes said that they did not find a knife on any of the men being held.

Frisco, Philly Are High on Preferred List for U.N. Site

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—San Francisco and Philadelphia were reported high on the list of preferred sites today for the permanent headquarters of the United Nations, New York city apparently having been dropped.

Authoritative sources said that while the U. N. sub-committee working on the site question had not yet made a formal decision it seemed definite that New York rated well below the other cities in the minds of many delegates.

San Francisco apparently holding top spot on the list. The San Francisco Chronicle said last night it had learned "on high authority" that the U. S. Army had agreed to give up the Presidio—an Army post in San Francisco—as a home for the United Nations. The Chronicle said this attitude made it "certain" the Presidio will be the first recommendation of the United Nations sub-committee on sites.

The sub-committee held a closed session yesterday and scheduled another today. Informants said it might reach a definite decision today, but there was no indication when that decision would be made public.

The sub-committee has just returned from inspection visits to Philadelphia, San Francisco, Boston and Westchester county, N. Y.

Republicans Ask Which War Powers Can Be Cut Off

of these trees. We want to be certain what we are pruning. Anticipating his election as chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, Wiley sent identical letters to the cabinet members and Veterans Administrator Omar Bradley asking a statement on: "Which wartime and emergency powers of the president currently apply to his cabinet department. Which powers in his opinion can be terminated and why, and when."

"Which in his opinion cannot be terminated and for how long does he believe it is advisable that they be kept in force."

Wiley said a preliminary survey indicated there are some 500 different statutes dealing with war powers and controls. Their expiration dates vary but many of the most important continue until six months after the official end of the war.

Republicans are anxious to end them and "bring back the free enterprise system," he said, but want to be certain that "conditions and circumstances" will permit.

The Senator said congressional action must be based upon estimates of "what will be foreign conditions and what will be domestic conditions."

Marriages, Births Are on Way to Records

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Marriages and births are headed for record levels in 1946. The national office of vital statistics estimated today that in the first nine months of the year 2,259,000 babies were born, about one per cent more than in the comparable period of 1943, the record year. The 12 months total for 1943 was 2,394,860.

Statistics for cities with populations of 100,000 or more, the most complete figures available, show that 595,289 marriages licenses were issued during the first nine months of 1946. This is more than the 594,908 licenses issued during all of 1942, the record year before 1946 came along.

September's birth rate was 27.9 babies per 1,000 population. The previous high rate was 26.8, set in March, 1918.

Today Is Coldest Of Season to Date In New York City

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—A sudden cold wave sent the mercury down to 15.5 degrees—the coldest of the season—in New York city today and temperatures were as much as 33 degrees below those at corresponding hours yesterday.

The minimum was recorded at 6:50 a. m. (E.S.T.). It was within 3 1/2 degrees of the all time low of 12 for the date, set in 1875. By 10 a. m. the mercury was up to 18 compared with 49 at the same hours yesterday.

The highest temperature during the night was 35, recorded at midnight. At 7, 8 and 9 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 16, 33 degrees under the temperature at those hours yesterday.

Shanghai Rioting Reported Over, Police on Guard

Shanghai, Dec. 2 (AP)—Some shopkeepers hesitatingly reopened for business today as police with shoot-to-kill orders guarded against any resumption of the week-end rioting which resulted in at least 100 injured and unofficial reports, denied by city officials, of five to 12 deaths.

At mid-morning a city spokesman said "we think we have the situation under control." He reiterated that nobody had been killed, by official count.

Rioting began Saturday after municipal authorities sought to clear the streets of the thousands of unlicensed sidewalk peddlers. Mayor K. C. Wu later eased the order by restricting the vendors to certain sections of the city, but the riots continued.

Blames Communists

The mayor told foreign correspondents he blamed the Communists for the outbreak. He told newsmen the "purpose behind" the riots was to create "disastrous bloodshed and tragedy" as a prelude to a general strike, but that the agitators had "failed in their effort to paralyze Shanghai."

An Associated Press photographer, China-born Don Carlos Roque, found a howling crowd menacing the Whangpoo police station in mid-afternoon Saturday. He saw two bodies under blankets in the station compound but was chased away by a policeman with drawn bayonet when he sought to take a picture.

Wu announced by radio he had ordered police to shoot to kill anyone disturbing the peace or carrying unauthorized firearms.

Chase Photographer

An Associated Press photographer, China-born Don Carlos Roque, found a howling crowd menacing the Whangpoo police station in mid-afternoon Saturday. He saw two bodies under blankets in the station compound but was chased away by a policeman with drawn bayonet when he sought to take a picture.

Roque said police fired point-blank to break up the crowd. Sunday morning, Roque saw another riot scene and again reported police fired into the mob.

"I saw one boy and two men shot," he related. "The boy was only five feet from me. I think he was dead. Before I could make sure, the mob stopped a bus, loaded the victims into it and drove it away."

There appeared to be no anti-foreign element in the demonstrations, although some foreigners reported their cars were stopped and their faces punched by the rioters.

Some of the demonstrators, they said, were shouting "down with Nanking," and "Chou En-Lai is right." Chou En-Lai is the chief Communist negotiator whose peace talks failed in Nanking.

Scherer, Benton, Auringer Injured As Pickup Upsets

Light Truck Overturns After Going Up Bank on Connelly Road Saturday Night

Three men were treated at the Kingston Hospital Saturday night following an automobile accident on the Connelly road about 6:30 p. m.

A 1930 Ford pickup truck driven by Joseph Scherer of Connelly failed to make the turn at the intersection of Salem street and the Connelly road, went up a bank, and turned over on its left side, investigators said.

Riding with Scherer were Vincent Auringer of Port Ewen and Leslie Benton of Ulster Park. The three men were taken to the Kingston Hospital by Conner's ambulance.

Auringer and Scherer were discharged from the hospital following treatment for cuts and bruises, while Benton, who suffered extensive lacerations of the face, was held over. His condition this morning was reported good. The full extent of his injuries was not disclosed.

Deputy Sheriffs Harry Keator and Joseph Haver investigated for the sheriff's office.

Teachers Found In Mountains by Searching Party

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two teachers, who lost their way in the densely wooded mountains north of here while searching for evergreens for class-room decorations, were found early today huddled beside a fire.

A rescue party of Wiconisco residents located the teachers, Miss Marion L. Forney, of Paxtang, and Miss Beatrice Watkins, Wiconisco, about nine hours after they went into the mountains.

State Police said they had wandered around the mountain-side trying to find their way out but had built a fire a half hour before their rescue.

The teachers drove into the mountains, leaving Mrs. Thomas Watkins, mother of one teacher, in the car to await their return. When they did not return after dark, Mrs. Watkins notified State Police and the search was ordered.

Fire Essay Winners Will Be Announced This Month

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, chairman of the essay contest committee of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, said today that it was announced the committee would be ready to submit its report of the winners of the contest some time in December.

The fire chief pointed out that there were 436 essays entered by the students of the schools in Ulster county, and that at the last meeting of the committee it had been decided to have the committee read and judge the essays, instead of seeking men outside the association to serve as judges.

The theme selected for the essays was "Fire Prevention." The other members of the committee are President Edward Mains of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, Fred Harder, secretary of the association, Gordon A. Craig of Kingston, Ralph Lyons and Chief William Maynard of Highland, Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson, and Harry Zellman of Saugerties.
